Mrs. William Alexander Leitch. The marriage united two families long identified with the society in the Capital, for, while Mr. Shivers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Woodfin Shivers, of Montevallo, Ala., he is a great-grandson of Col. John Tayloe, of Octagon House.

The Rev. James F. Marshall officiated at the marriage, assisted by the Rev. William Taylor Snyder, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, and a cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Leitch was given in marriage by her father. She wore a simple gown of ivory satin crepe, with an underbodice and side draperies of luster lace. Her tulle veil, worn over her face, was held in place by a coronet of rare lovely old rose point lace, and was caught above the ears with clusters of orange blossoms. Orange blossoms also held together the veil and the long train, which hung from the waist line, and the bride carried a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride's maid of honor was her sister, Miss Dorothy Lyman Leitch, who was charming in a gown of champagne-colored faille taffeta. The bridesmaid, Miss Juliet Phelps Williams, Miss Annette Foxall McCarty, Mrs. Thomas Johnson and Miss Edith Easterday, wore dainty frocks of light green georgette crepe with simple bodices, bateau necklines and petal skirts. The bridesmaids were formed of tulle in two tiers of green, tied at one side in fluffy bows with long trailing ends. They carried butterfly roses.

Shivers' best man was Capt. James Warren Andrews, U. S. A., of Montgomery, Ala. The ushers were Raymond J. Heber, of New Martinsville, W. Va.; Henry H. Baber, of Norfolk, Va.; and Frank Scott and William Douglas Leitch, of Washington.

The church was decorated in white chrysanthemums, palms and trailing greens, and quantities of cosmos were used at the house. Green and white was the color scheme in the dining room, with bright-colored autumn tints in the drawing room.

The bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. David Woodfin Shivers, assisted Mrs. William Leitch in receiving. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mallory, Richard Mallory and Miss Mallory, of Lanham, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, of Baltimore; Alexander Crawford, of Ardmore, Pa.; Miss Helen Gee, of Denver; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Hepburn, of St. David, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Shivers will make their home in New Martinsville, W. Va.

FEW BRITISH SEEKING ENTRY TO THIS COUNTRY
Entrance of British subjects into the United States is virtually without restriction so far as persons born in Great Britain and most of their dependents are concerned, but there is a question as to the admissibility under the new immigration law of persons born in British Africa, India or the Immigration Bureau said today.

The 3 per cent immigration law makes the place of birth, rather than the citizenship of aliens seeking admission the factor conferring admissibility. Under the law 14,000 persons are entitled to admission into this country each month from British territories, but scarcely a quarter of that number have so far sought to enter.

FUNDS ARE SOUGHT FOR AERONAUTICAL RESEARCH
An increase of 70 per cent in the appropriation to carry on aeronautical research work next year, especially the development of commercial aviation, is sought by the national advisory committee for aeronautics, it was announced today.

The committee, composed of civilian experts, last year was allowed $200,000, and for the year 1922 is asking nearly $341,000.

In a report adopted at its annual meeting which was made public today the committee declared that the most important step in the promotion of commercial aviation is the development of national air routes under several regulations. This regulation would be through the proposed Bureau of Air Navigation in the Department of Commerce.

D. C. WILL HAVE MODEL PROHIBITION OFFICE
The Washington prohibition office will, in the near future, be the model of the country. This is the ambition of Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, who has made plans for moving the local office from its present location in the Hoe building, 1330 F street, to an adjoining building. The office will occupy the entire rear of the lower floor of the building next door.

Arrangements are being made to install modern burglar alarm systems and safes in the new quarters and a watchman will be employed.
